

About the (RE)BUILD project

The idea

(RE)BUILD is a European project that aims to make lifelong learning for European citizens a reality for all.

To do this, the (RE)BUILD team is putting in place a number of tools to develop educational resources with the aim of promoting the learning and training of marginalized adults.

At the end, the project aims to provide and improve high-quality employment and learning opportunities for the target group.

Kick-off meeting

Following a great kickoff partner meeting in October, the Team discussed our project's objectives and strategized the next and first steps. And so, the development of the first Intellectual Output.

Since then, the career management toolkit is well on its way!

Progress after 6 months

The Team is currently finalizing the first Intellectual Output (IO1), and starting the peer review process in order to create the most delightful career management toolkit.

The second examination will be operated by a mixed panel of marginalized adult and VET professionals.

More about IO1: Develop a career management toolkit

The aims to promote practices that enable marginalized adults to respond to the trends of the labor market, while developing flexibility, self-awareness, decision-making and exploration career self-management strategies.

36 courses will be created to feed this toolkit.

Next steps

- IO2: In-Service Training Programme on Career Guidance
- IO3: E-learning Portal
- IO4: Policy Paper with policy and operational recommendations
